Course Description

This is an introductory course to Sociology - a discipline that studies human behavior and the organizations of society. Sociology is a field of study that examines social, political, and economic phenomena in terms of social structures, social forces, and group relations. The course will cover several important sociological topics, including socialization, culture, and the social construction of knowledge, social inequality, and how sociologists carry out research.

Credit: 4-hrs.

The Goal of this course is to convey the distinctive features of the sociological imagination to our students from different disciplinary areas via introducing the basic concepts, methods and theoretical approaches of sociology.

Learning Objectives:

By the end of the course, the students should be able to:

- Describe the sociological perspective and explain its improvement over common-sense reasoning;
- Describe the major sociological theories and the historical context of their creation;
- Apply these concepts and theories to explain contemporary social problems;
- Apply the key concepts highlighted in the course;
- Exercise independent and critical thinking skills;
- Understand of how society shapes us and how we shape our society.

Course Requirements:

This course consists a range of activities including group learning, lectures, discussions, and video/audio presentations. Students will be evaluated by response papers, attendance, and participation in class, a final paper, and a final presentation.

Make sure to explain the basic issue/phenomena, concepts, the different dimensions of the issue that are interesting to sociology and any other information that you think is necessary to explain what we know and what we still need to know about the issue/phenomena.

Policies

Academic Integrity: The University assumes that all students come to Framingham State University with serious educational intent and expects them to be mature, responsible individuals who will exhibit high standards of honesty and personal conduct in their academic life. All members of the Salem State University academic community have a responsibility to ensure that scholastic honesty and academic integrity are safeguarded and maintained. Cheating and plagiarism are unfair, demoralizing, and demeaning to all of us. Cheating, plagiarism, and collusion in dishonest activities are serious acts which erode the University's educational role and cheapen and diminish the learning experience not only for the perpetrators, but also for the entire community. It is expected that Salem State University students will understand and subscribe to the ideal of academic integrity and that they will be willing to bear individual responsibility for their work. Materials (written or otherwise) submitted to fulfill academic requirements must represent a student's own efforts.
