Course Description:

Microeconomic theory concentrates on the study of choices made by individual consumers and firms and their implications for the allocation of resources and the distribution of income in an economy. We begin by studying the optimizing behavior of households in a variety of settings: buying goods and services, saving, and labor supply decisions. Next, we study the behavior of firms in various kinds of markets, focusing on the outcomes of competitive and noncompetitive markets and emphasizing the relationship between market structure and market performance. Additional topics may include: welfare criteria and implications; introduction to general equilibrium analysis; game theory; causes and consequences of market failure, and government policy responses to market failures. A significant part of our work will involve development of the tools and methods necessary to examine the situations described above.

Prerequisite:

- ✧ Introductory Microeconomics
- ✧ One semester of college-level calculus

Note: Students who do not know elementary calculus will have a difficult time in this course

Course Goals:

A student who satisfactorily completes this course should:

- ✧ Become familiar with the standard tools of microeconomic analysis.
- ✧ Be able to apply these tools in a variety of situations.
- ✧ Understand the concepts of allocative and productive efficiency.

- ✧ Understand the implications of different market structures.

Required Textbook:

The text for this course is Microeconomics: Theory and Applications with Calculus by Jeffrey M. Perloff (Perloff), 5th edition, Pearson Addison Wesley, copyright 2020.

Grading Policy:

Grades for this course will be based on the following:

- ✧ 25% Exam 1 (250 points)
- ✧ 35% Exam 2 (350 points)
 - No makeup exams will be given unless you have an excused absence.
- ✧ 30% quizzes (given on Thursdays when there is not an exam; 3 at 10% each) (300points)
 - No makeup quizzes will be given unless you have an excused absence.
- ✧ 10% Homework Assignments (1 each week; 4 total) (100 points total; 25 points each) (No late homework accepted.)

Notes on Homework:

1. Some of the homework questions may be taken from the required textbook or recommended supplemental readings. Answers to these questions are available online or in published materials. As a requirement to receive credit on the homework, you must state and sign that you did not consult any online or published materials to obtain the answers to these questions. No points will be given for homework submitted without this certification.

- "I certify that I did not consult any online or published materials to directly obtain or check the answer to any question in this homework set." Signed...

2. You are encouraged to work in groups of 2 or 3 on the homework sets. Each individual must submit their own set of solutions.

3. All homework sets are due at the start of class each Thursday. Late homework will not be accepted and will receive a zero grade for that assignment. Exceptions will only be made for documented illnesses and emergencies.

When in doubt about any policy, please ask me.

Grading Scale:
