Teams Article - Module Discussions (25%): There will be four Team Article - Module Discussions (Modules 1-4). Instructor will provide a team related topic for each discussion in class. Students will provide a summary of the article in class. The student, to receive an “A” grade, needs to respond with their article summary by the first due date and a minimum of two (2) substantive comments to other students by the second due date. To be substantive, all discussion need to contain specific examples to clarify and support your main points. Due dates will be listed in each discussion description in the Discussions section in Blackboard. These weekly discussions are both homework assignments, and substitute for classroom interactions. Unlike text messages, your written responses need to follow correct capitalization, grammar, and spelling rules. Points will be deducted for improper grammar and capitalization.

Self-Awareness Assignment (25%): Understanding your developmental needs and how they can affect your performance is a skill that will help you throughout your career. For this assignment you will have the opportunity to identify some of your strengths and some of your developmental needs and then develop a plan of action as to how you can capitalize on your strengths and improve your weaknesses. For the paper you will identify two personal areas of strength and two areas of development. Based on this, you will be required to identify your areas of strength and development and indicate (a) concrete examples of how you demonstrate these strengths/weaknesses and (b) how each of these hinder or help your current performance at work and/or in school. You will need to draw on theory to explain why these strengths / developmental needs are likely to affect your performance and how they might impact your future career. Then, you will develop a plan that outlines how you could improve your weakness and how you can capitalize on your strength to succeed in your chosen career.
